

ZUNYI (遵义)

Located in the north of Guizhou Province, Zunyi is a small city with an interesting historical background that is famous throughout China. As the location of one of the most important meetings in Chinese history, Zunyi attracts tourists from all over China, but is little known to foreigners. Its interesting historical background, off-the-beaten-track location and cultural heritage make for an enriching placement option for anyone looking to experience Chinese culture and play a role in the education of students from less advantaged backgrounds.

The Placement

As a University English teacher in Zunyi, you will be required to plan and teach 14-16 hours' worth of oral English classes on Monday to Friday, to university students aged between 18-21. You will receive a generous monthly salary of 7000 RMB, a daily food allowance for working days and a total of 3 months holiday, spread over national holidays and school winter and summer breaks.

As Zunyi is a relatively small city with a relatively low foreign population, your contribution as a foreign teacher will be greatly appreciated and your students eager to learn from you. Though the university will provide a curriculum, you will have a lot of freedom in how you teach, allowing you to adapt topics to suit you and your students.

Accommodation

Fully furnished and comfortable on-campus accommodation is provided by the university, who also cover the cost of utility bills. Meals can be enjoyed in the university canteen, at home, or in nearby restaurants.

The Campus

The university campus is very modern and offers excellent facilities, including a swimming pool, sports fields and a canteen. The university is surrounded by mountains, making for a very picturesque campus.

The City

Zunyi is a historical city that attracts hordes of Chinese tourists and has a modest foreign population. It has an extensive public transport network and is on the Guiyang-Chongqing railway line, meaning that larger cities are easily reached from Zunyi. The city offers numerous leisure activities and quiet parks, as well as numerous shops, bars and restaurants and a couple of western supermarkets. There are many interesting historical attractions located in and around the city, making it a great destination for anyone interested in history and looking to immerse themselves in Chinese culture. Thanks to Zunyi's southern location, the air is clean and the weather is good.

Attractions

Zunyi Conference and Revolutionary Historical Sites: Zunyi, the place where the meeting that changed the course of Chinese history was held, is a city known by people all over China. During the Zunyi Conference, Mao Zedong negotiated his way to the head of the Communist Part of China. This historic site is made up of four residences used by Party leaders, the former Chinese Soviet Republic State Bank, the old Catholic Church (headquarters of the Red Army's Political Department), and a museum. The main site is located in the heart of Zunyi's old town and Mao Zedong's residence is a 15-minute walk from the main cluster of buildings.

Site of the Zunyi Conference: The Zunyi conference of 1935, was held in a former merchant's home, which has since become one of the city's most noteworthy attractions.

Zunyi Meeting Memorial Museum: Located just across from the Zunyi Conference site, the museum gives visitors a better understanding of the city's history through excellent exhibits on the Zunyi Conference, the Long March, and the Chinese Civil War (1927-1937 and 1946-1949) in Guizhou. Unfortunately, the Museum offers limited English translations, but it's worth visiting for the impressive pictures and statues.

Old Town: Surrounding the Zunyi Conference Site are several blocks of restored Zunyi buildings. The Old Town is home to the best shopping and eating establishments in town, as well as several blocks of traditional-style architecture.

Xiangshan Temple: This temple dates back to the 1920s and is the largest in Zunyi. It is located in the middle of the Old Town on a steep slope. It's a tough climb to the top, but the panoramic views of the city are worth it. Though a popular tourist attraction, it is still used by worshipers.

Fenghuang Shan Park: Zunyi is shaped roughly like a doughnut, with Fenghuang Mountain at the centre. Fenghuang Mountain Park consists of tea gardens, hiking trails, temples, and the tomb of the Red Army Martyrs.

Zunyi Park: Once the private garden of a local merchant, the park opened to the public after the revolution. It's located along the river opposite Fenghuang Shan Park and contains typical Chinese park features, such as tea gardens, rock sculptures and a large fish pond.

Food

Zunyi has many specialty foods that are well known throughout Guizhou Province. In fact, the people of Guizhou say, "eat in Zunyi". Below are some of the city's best-known dishes:

Fried Dragon Claw with Shredded Meat: The "dragon claw" in this dish is a wild vegetable grown in the mountains which is combined with spicy shredded pork to form one of the region's most popular dishes.

Fried Houத்துynia with Smoked Pork: Another wild vegetable dish, combined with smoked pork.

Zunyi egg cake

Lamb Rice Noodles: Noodles in a red coloured soup which is flavoured with sweet and sour pickled radishes.

Zunyi Maofeng Tea: One of Guizhou Province's four famous teas.

These dishes can be found all around the city, but one of the best places to try some local food is along "Snack Street", located in the Honghua Gang District or the Dingzi Kou Night Market.

Entertainment

Though a small city, Zunyi has a selection of bars, nightclubs and cinemas. Below are some of the most popular nightlife spots of the city:
